

Position Description: Postsecondary Access Advisor

Organizational Summary: Quality educational experiences are essential to preparing students for the future, yet systemic barriers create pronounced disparities in educational opportunities and outcomes. The Emily Krzyzewski Center, a nonprofit organization in Durham, North Carolina, implements four distinct programs designed to build on the academic, career, and leadership potential of students who are traditionally underrepresented in higher education. Collectively, our programs serve students from elementary school through college and equip them with the skills necessary to successfully complete higher education, connect to promising careers, and become agents of change within their communities. We amplify our efforts through partnerships with our local school district, community-based organizations, and universities.

Program Summary: As a complement to its enrollment-based programs that serve students in elementary school through college, the Emily K Center is committed to serving Durham youth more broadly through its open-access program, Game Plan: College. Through partnerships with schools and mission-aligned community-based organizations, Game Plan: College is a part of a systematic approach to ensuring all high school students, regardless of income or background, have the high-quality information and support they need to access their best-fit postsecondary option. Keys to success for this strategy include successful community partnerships, most notably, Durham Public Schools; strong program leadership that reflects a collaborative and entrepreneurial spirit; knowledge of the postsecondary landscape as it relates to students' awareness of and ability to access diverse postsecondary pathways; high-quality curriculum-based workshops and individualized advising aligned with best practices for meeting key college access milestones; and the application of an equity lens through which the importance of the programmatic work is understood and executed.

Plan group activities (e.g., classroom presentations, club meetings, school/PTA workshops, and presentations) in assigned schools in an effort to build awareness of the importance of higher education and awareness of Game Plan: College's services for students and families. In consultation with the Director of Postsecondary Access, evaluate the needs of each assigned school and implement interventions and activities that will increase postsecondary awareness and college access support for students.

Data Management: Support the Director of Postsecondary Access and the evaluation team in collecting, managing, and sharing data to improve our services to high school students.
